Since one person could not open this I am, again, sending it to all of you. I would not want anyone to not read this attachment.

On a personal level, I would also like you all to know that most of us feel that the protocols that are in place, in regards to Covid19 and the fishing industry, are doing their job, hence the cases that have been caught recently. Why would mandating masking make any better sense than allowing an essential worker to travel out of state and when they come home return right to work? Does that essential worker have some kind of immunity? can they not spread it?

No mask mandate.

Sincerely,

Susie Burrell
